A STORY WELL TOLD, BY ONE WHO KNOWS.

Mr. H. F. Hartwell, formerly a resident of Wash-ington, but now employed by Messrs. Rice & Barnes. No. 318 North Gay street. Baltimore, told a reporter an interesting experience which he had passed through.

Mr. H. P. HARTWELL.

"About five years ago," said Mr. Hartwell, "I no-ticed that my nose, throat and ears were giving me a great deal of trouble. I first noticed that my throat felt slightly sore at times, and feit full, as if there was a foreign body of some kind in it. After a while a tough and ropy secretion becan to gather in my throat, which kept me hawking and spitting continu-ally to remove it. My nose felt stuffed up at times, which obstructed my breathing a great deal. My ears kept ringing, also some discharge from them, which, together with increasing deafness, caused me a good deal of worry. I had constant pain over my eyes and through my head. The combination of these troubles

I felt some relief after a visit or two, at it was nearly two weeks before I becan to know that he was reaching the disease. Then the cure in earnest began, and in two months and a half he had me perfectly well. I felt like a new being-in fact, life was again attractive to me. His method of treatment was searching yet gentle, his charges moderate, and altogether I am more than setisfied that I went to

The Washingtons scored a run in the first inning after two hands were out on Burns' single, a steal and weich's mult of Hines By to center. Two more were added in the second on a single by Davis, McQuery's fine double, McGuire's sacrifice and Carsey's single. The fourth run was made by Hines being struck by a ball and scoring on Dowd's fine three-bagger. In the next inning McQuery got second on Townsend's bad work on a high fly at the plate, but the necessary hit to bright him in was not but the necessary hit to bring him in was not made. In the eighth Washington was robbed of a chance to score by Ray's great catch, and in the ninth Wise spoiled another opportunity by a left-hand catch of a hot liner from Davis'

Van Haltren, whose playing in the preceding innings had made him the lion of the day, got a base on balls. Hay touched one of Carsey's curves and it rolled toward first so gently with the light impetus of the scientific bunt that the swift little hitter easily distanced it. The bases were full. What would Wise do? Two strikes were called on him and the next ball pitched were called on him and the next ball pitched by Carsey came spinning to one side. The captain turned, the ball struck him squarely in the back and Welch was forced in with the winning run. An infield hit by Johnson filled winning run. An infield hit by Johnson filled the bases again, but only for a moment. Werden dealt the ball one of those resounding raps which tell that the batsman has met it squarely and fairly. Up in the air and out near the right field fence corner the ball sailed on its long journey while Werden ran to third base, and the three runs which were quickly scored placed the Baltimores far in the lead. Washington made 9 hits and 0 errors and Baltimore 14 hits and 3 errors. McQuety led the Senatorial batting with two doubles and a single.

PRESIDENT BENNETT'S NEWS.

The Baltimore Sun remarks: President Henry B. Bennett of the Washingtons accompanied his club to Baltimore yesterday and saw the game with ex-Manager Henderson of the old Baltimore Unions. Mr. Bennett was identified in 1884 with the Union Association Club in the capital. "Snyder has been given full charge of our team," he said, "and some new players will be secured soon if we can get them. We want a new pitcher, catcher and third baseman, although after Dunlap recovers we may place him at third base. Our directors have resolved to spend all the money which may be necessary to get a first-class club together, for we know that nothing short of such an organization can ever excite the enthusiclub to Baltimore yesterday and saw the game gether, for we know that nothing short of such an organization can ever excite the enti-usiasm of the Washington people. One cause of our desire to dispense with the services of Manager Trott was that he lived in Baltimore and did not spend enough time in Washington to transact club business. We do not concede that his contract cannot be dissolved, but even if that were the case I would favor the engagement of Mr. Snyder." President Bennett is a great admirer of the Orioles.

A Number of Fatal Cases Have Occurred in

The following is the substance of an article which was printed in the Denver Times yesterday afternoon: The name of Annie Armstrong was added today to the long list of residents of this city who have died from arsenical poisoning ing during the past three months. She died on Saturday and an analysis of her stomach showed that she had died from arsenical poisoning, enough arsenic being found to kill half a dozen meu. About the time this was discovered it was absounced that at least one member of the Haftun family who died in February last, supposedly from trichinosis, had died of arsenical poisoning. Five members of this family died shortly after eating raw pork. The body of one of the children was enhumed last week, and the viscera examined and traces of arsenic were found. The fact that the death of these persons was caused by arsenic was only discovered after the death of Mrs. Barnaby by the same drug was announced, but it was not until this morning that the facts came to light. In a few hours another death from this drug may be announced, for at the present time the wife of a prominent Denver man is ill with all the symptoms of arsenical poisoning and her physicians are in doubt as to whether she will recover or not. The cases are now in the hands of the authorities and interesting developments may be looked for soon.

Miss Armstrong was a domestic in the employ of the Rev. Mr. Hansen, the Swedish Lutheran minister of this place. When Mr. Hansen was seen he said that it was impossible for the story to be true. But Prof. Hedding, the chemist to the foreign consults are induced to a tend it.

JUSTICE BREWER'S REMARKS. Mr. Justice Brewer of the Supreme Court made an interesting address. He spoke of the influence of the tracts issued by the society in changing human life and character. Fifty years ago, he said, sermons were long, and quantity in the pulpit, as well as in other professions, was regarded as of more importance than quality, but now expression was condensed. Great railroads were transferred by means of a few lines of writing. Pithy paragraphs had taken the place of long editorials in the newspapers. The tract presents the truth in a condensed, attractive form and it has an important place in modern civilization.

Some statistics of the work of the society was given by Rev. William A. Rice, the secretary of during the six weeks of its existence has lived the society. He said that the receipts of the society for the year amounted to $395,000. There have been added during the past year 150 new permanent publications, not including periodicals. It publishes six periodicals, two of which are in German. The entire circulation of these periodicals the past year was 1,905,300. During the past year it has employed 151 colporteurs, who have labored in thirty-four of the states and territories and in Ontario. They have made 113,683 family visits and put into circulation about 85,000 volumes of Christian literature. They found 21,854 families who never attend church, 5,719 without the Biole and 13,558 without religious reading matter. the society. He said that the receipts of the

A PASTOR'S SOCIAL. The social given last Friday night at the residence of Rev. Dr. Phillips was an enjoyable Church Sunday Night.

For half a century and more the American Tract Society has carried on its work of distributing tracts and carrying the gospel to places remote from the usual church influences. Sunday evening the anniversary of this venerable society was celebrated by a meeting held at the First Congregational Church. Judge William Strong presided, and he was introduced by the paster of the church.
